SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6. FOREIGN NEWS.

PER CITY OF SYDNEY, DEC. 2. Hon, Zach, Chandler, Senator from Michigan, died at Chicago, Nov. 1st. PHILADELPHIA, November 10.—Senator Bayard of Delaware, who has just returned home from Europe, finds himself on the crest of a popular wave which promises to carry him to the highest honors in the gift of the Democratic party-the nomination for the Presidency.

New York, November 10 .- De Lesseps writes ama Railroad, that on his arrival at Aspinwall, December 28th, be expects to personally preside over the International Commission of Engineers to examine the lines and means of construction of the ship canal. He invites Totten to a membership of the Commission or to appoint a substitute.

NEW YORK, November 10 .- In the course of his sermon yesterday morning Beecher remarked incidentally : There are but two objects of punishment above and below. One is the preservation The infliction of infinite and endless punishment for any other object is a token of deoniac cruelty. It is demoniac and not divine to inflict pain for the sake of pain. If I thought," said Beecher, " that a God stood at the door where eternal punishment my soul would cry out, Let centage of mortality far exceeds that of births.

NEW YORK. November 12 .- A Tribune reporter has interviewed Nunez of the Chilean Legation, sent reinforcements to Bokhara. who said: By capturing the port of Pisagua the Chileans have placed themselves between the Peruvian forces at Arica, Tacna and Iquique. At Arica, which is some distance inland, the Peruvians have about 12,000 men. At Iquique they have probably 9,000. It will now be in the power of dismissal of Mahmoud Nedlm Pasha, Minister of the Chileans, as they have command of the sea, to cut off supplies for troops at Iquique, and thus compel them to surrender. They may also undertake operations against the forces at Arica, which the Peruvians will be unable to reinforce from Iquique. Chile has not so far borrowed a dollar. has paid her way by issuing greenbacks. Peru is greatly crippled. She has not paid the interest on her public debt, which is $200,000,000, since 1876. Nunez explains that the aim of Peru was to obtain complete control of the nitrate trade, and that the people in the disputed territory are nearly all Chileans. He expects that the recent successes

Indeed, the maritime nations who are fondest of referring to the desperate stories of their naval history, might be proud to add to their records a tale like that of Huascar. Spaniards, and least of all South American Spaniards, have not been regarded as the sort of men likely to fight in this way on the sea, but it will not take many fights like this to establish their fame. There are some names in the report, however, such as Grau and McMahon, which seem to imply that all the heroes were not men of pure Spanish blood.

New York, November 16 .- The Star says: Certain persons residing in this city have received private telegrams from Paris, conveying the intelligence that Miss Sickles, only child of Gen. Daniel Sickles, late United States Minister to Spain, has eloped with an Englishman named McCarthy, the pair having fled to London. Miss Sickles is about 20 years of age, and is highly accom-

NEW YORK. November 14 .- A Herald Washington special of the 13th says: This morning Rear Admiral Ammen called upon President Hayes with a letter from an acquaintance in Paris assuring him of a satisfactory arrangement made in Paris for the immediate advancement, when required, of one-third of the capital necessary for the Nicaragua canal enterprise, by one of the most substantial banking houses of Europe, upon condition that General Grant will consent to accept the Presidency of an American company, organized for the construction of the work. The writer adds that he leaves immediately for America, to confer with persons in this country interested in this great enterprise. On receipt of this letter Admiral Ammen immediately telegraphed the facts to General Grant at Chicago.

CHICAGO, November 18 .- The editor of the News has verified the correctness of the dispatch received from General Robert Toombs of Atlanta on the 12th instant. The dispatch as received has been compared with the original, and found to be cor-rect in every word. Hence there was no garbling In the transmission. The closing sentences are : · He (Grant) fought for his country honorably, and woo. I fought for mine and lost. I am ready to try it over again. Death to the Union."

LONDON November 19.-Michael Davitt and James Bryce Killen have been arrested having used language in public speeches calculated to incite a breach of the peace, and James Daly, editor of the Connaught Telegraph, has been arrested in Castlebar for a similar cause. The prisoners have been conveyed for examination to Sligo, where the speeches were made.

The Home Rule Executive Committee, at its meetings in London to-day, O'Conner Power presiding, passed a resolution protesting against the arrest of Davitt. South Pacific .- The Sydney Evening News of Oct. 18 says:
H. M. S. Danæ, which arrived yesterday from the Islands, brings news from New Britain, from which it appears that the native chief Tarlilli, who was one of the leaders in the massacre of the Rev. George Brown's teachers, has again become hostile to British and mission interest. He recently burned down a large mission house on the island. H. M. schooner Renard, which was at the Duke of York Island, proceeded down the coast to Tarlilli's village, and he was requested to come forward and give an explanation of his misconduct. He, however, refused to do so, and the Renard thereupon landed an armed party, consisting of two fully-armed boats, one boat with a rocket apparatus, from which several shots were discharged into the village. Two houses were burned down, and some of the plantations destroyed. During the visit of the Renard, the German steamer Alice sold the natives some Snider rifles and ammunition to fight the English boats' crews. The natives met and they were very insolent to the Renard people, and the chief sent a challenge to fight them. The locality at the time was the scene of a human feast, and the newlypicked human bones were thick about the place. The Renard has completed a survey of the whole of Blanche Bay, and the Duke of York Archipelago. After leaving Blanche Bay the Danæ went on to the New Hanover and Admiralty Islands (these are about the best known of any of the islands opened up for commerce.) The natives are a fine warlike race, and appear well skilled, not only in the manufacture of their weapons, but are also no mean adepts at carving masks and other ornamental work, many interesting specimens of which were obtained by the officers and men of the ship. Unfortunately, their murderous and plundering propensities (nearly the whole of the crews of wrecked and castaway sailors being invariably eaten) has pre-vented traders from visiting these islands, the numerous coral islands and shoals that abound rendering navigation extremely difficult. Much valuable hydrographical information has been obtained by the Danæ, under the auspices of Lieutenant Bower, no opportunity being lost of making a complete survey of the islands passed. The officers had few opportunities of landing, in consequence of the savage nature of the islanders. The Danæ returned to Marna on the 26th September last, where, on account of the market of the market of the savage of Contain Francesca. count of the murder of one of Captain Furguson's

After the Vienna Conference it was found desirable to effect a reconciliation, if possi- does not follow that the accomplishment of it is supernatural. For instance, what can be more marvellous at first sight than the sack and box trick which conjurors sometimes perform! A man is put in a sack, the neck of which is securely tied up with string and the knots carefully sealed. The sack is then placed in a box which stands on a platform above the stage; the box is locked, and numerous seals are placed on the cracks where the lid closes. How utterly incredible it seems that a man can free himself-that is to say until one knows how it is done. The first idea which will occur to the inquirer is that the prisoner falls through a trap door and is released below. This, however, is impracticable, for a trap in the platform and another in the box could scarcely be made so neatly as to avoid detection; and besides, visitors are invited to place strings, sticks, &c., below the platform, any disturbance in the positions of which could be detected. But how is it done? Very simply indeed, darkness being secured. The sack is made of an elastic fibrous stuff through which the captive can easily make his way without disturbing the neck; and the hole through which he has escaped closes behind him in consequence of the elasticity of the material. He is now free in a sealed box and what does he do next? The top of the box is so constructed that when a spring is touched it turns easily upon a rod inserted longitudinally through the top. There is, in fact, a false top, some inches above the apparent top where the locks and seals are. They remain intact while the false top is now swinging loosely. A second touch of the spring when the captive has slipped out securely fastens the false top. The lights are turned on, spectators are summoned to look at the seals, which have not, of course, been touched; the seals are broken, the box unlocked, and there is the box in the empty sack, while, to the amazement of all present, who do not know the secret, the man who was so firmly entrapped steps forward upon the stage.

What Claus Spreckels Says.

Claus Spreckels, who is largely interested in matters at the Sandwich Islands, was interviewed by a Call reporter last evening, in regard to the effect which the proposed immigration to the Islands would have upon the welfare of the Hawaiian Government. The entire population of the Islands at the present time, Mr. Spreckels states, is about 55,000. They are in want of labor, but 5,000 Chinese would more than supply the demand. Beyond that number, Mr. Spreckels says, would be a detriment. The Government was opposed to extended Chinese immigration, and the Ministers of China would never, he thought, be able to so influence the King and his Cabinet as to permit unlimited Chinese emigration. Of course, it would be a grand thing for China to gain possession of the Sandwich Is-lands, and they would be willing to spend any amount of money to accomplish that object, but he did not believe they would be able to accom-plish it. They certainly would not if his interests were consulted, or his personal influence had any weight. Three schooners loaded with natives had recently arrived in Honolulu from the South Sea Islands, and a cargo of laborers was expected from Maderia. These people were all docile, and generally preferable to the Chinese. Mr. Spreckels has about 100 Chinese and 125 whites em-ployed upon his plantation on the island of Maui. The former he pays $10 to $12 per month; the latter he gives from $3 to $4 per day. The island was capable of maintaining one million of people and the land is wonderfully productive. Each productive acre of land will produce from $500 to $600 per acre per annum. Each acre will produce from four to seven tons of sugar per annum. By a system of irrigation lately intro-duced, labor was very much reduced. In conclusion, Mr. Spreckels said he had no fear of the Chinese Government being able to bribe the Ministry and Legislature into allowing unrestricted Chinese immigration .- Morning Call.
